How to Play On Piano Piano is a very interesting and unique musical instrument that is fun and relaxing to play and listen. Most people who want to learn how to play on piano are usually discouraged because they initially thought that you need long years of practice before you will be able to play a complete song. Furthermore, you need to undergo tedious and long piano lessons and pay a hefty amount of price for every piano session with a music teacher. However, that is not automatically the case. If you want to learn how to play the piano, you have to know first how the piano plays. Learn the basic such as chords, keys and piano notes and you can learn on your own using piano lesson on video tutorials. One of the common misconception about this is that people does not necessarily have to comprehend the music in order for them to play by the ear. It is true that there are people who just play the piano without fully understanding the piano notes, keys, and chords. However, you do not want to be like them. It is essential for you to understand how to create progression, chords, how scales are formed on the sheet music. If you cannot find a music teacher that will provide some assistance in understanding this, you may watch piano lesson on video. Avoid Memorizing and Learn the Patterns Similar with playing other musical instruments such as guitar, you do not have to memorize the song. It is basically impossible for anyone to memorize hundreds or thousands of songs but you can always look at the pattern when learning piano. If you have the time to watch piano video tutorials, you will notice that most songs have a pattern. More than a dozen songs have patterns. This is why learning how the scales are formed is important. They do have diverse melodies but if you noticed at the sheet music most of them share the same chords. Listening Listening skill is one of the most crucial skills when you want to learn how to play on piano. Just the mere fact that you know if the piano notes are going down or up is important. The chords can also be easily identified when you are listening. The slow and soulful sound is most probably a dominant chord, spooky sound is on diminished chord, sad songs are on minor chord and happy songs are major chords. This is one of the major secrets in learning piano by ear. The most essential tips that you can have is to keep on practicing. Watch as many piano video tutorials as you can or if you have the time, attend the piano lesson with a music teacher. Hone your skills and time will come when you will be able to play the piano like a pro.
