

Chapter 1 : Jason Voorhees - Wikipedia

Jason X: To the Third Power is a novel written by Nancy Kilpatrick and published by Black Flame.. Official Summary Edit. Evil gets an upgrade! The world thought it could breathe a sigh of relief when the juggernaut of death known as Jason Voorhees was cryogenically frozen.

Appearances[edit] Jason Voorhees first appears during a nightmare of the main character Alice Hardy Adrienne King in the original Friday the 13th film; he becomes the main antagonist of the series in its sequels. As well as the films, there have been books and comics that have either expanded the universe of Jason, or been based on a minor aspect of him. Films[edit] Jason made his first cinematic appearance in the original Friday the 13th on May 9, In this film, Jason is portrayed in the memories of his mother, Mrs. Voorhees, the cook at Camp Crystal Lake, seeks revenge for his death, which she blames on the camp counselors. Revealed to be alive, an adult Jason exacts revenge on Alice for decapitating his mother in the original film. Jason Steven Dash and Warrington Gillette , returns to Crystal Lake, living there as a hermit and guarding it from all intruders. Five years later a group of teenagers arrive to set up a new camp, only to be murdered one by one by Jason, who wears a sack over his head to hide his face. Ginny Amy Steel , the lone survivor , finds a makeshift shack in the woods with a shrine built around the severed head of Mrs. Voorhees, and surrounded by corpses. He is left incapacitated as Ginny is taken away in an ambulance. At the same time, Chris Higgins Dana Kimmell returns to family property with some friends. An unmasked and reclusive Jason kills anyone who wanders into the barn where he is hiding. Taking a hockey mask from a victim to hide his face, he leaves the barn to kill the rest of the group. The Final Chapter continues the story, with a presumed-dead Jason Ted White found by the police and taken to the morgue. Jason awakens at the morgue to kill an attendant and a nurse, and makes his way back to Crystal Lake. While Trish distracts Jason, Tommy finally kills him with a machete. While attempting to destroy his body, Tommy inadvertently resurrects Jason C. Graham via a piece of cemetery fence that acts as a lightning rod. Now possessing superhuman abilities, Jason returns to Crystal Lake, renamed Forest Green, and begins his killing spree anew. Tommy eventually lures Jason back to the lake where he drowned as a child and chains him to a boulder on the lake floor, but almost dies in the process. The New Blood begins an undisclosed amount of time after Jason Lives. Jason Kane Hodder is inadvertently freed from his chains by the telekinetic Tina Shepard Lar Park Lincoln , who was attempting to resurrect her father. Jason Takes Manhattan sees Jason return from the grave, brought back to life via an underwater electrical cable. He follows a group of students on their senior class trip to Manhattan , boarding the Lazarus to wreak havoc. Upon reaching Manhattan, Jason kills all the survivors but Rennie Jensen Daggett and Sean Scott Reeves ; he chases them into the sewers, where he is submerged in toxic waste and dies. The FBI sets up a sting to kill Jason, which proves successful. However, through mystical possession , Jason survives by passing his demon -infested heart from one being to the next. Though Jason does not physically appear throughout most of the film, it is learned he has a half-sister and a niece, and that he needs them to retrieve and reinhabit his body. The film starts off in ; Jason has returned after another unexplained resurrection. Captured by the U. Jason escapes, killing all but one of his captors, and slices through the cryo-chamber, spilling cryonics fluid into the room, freezing himself and the only other survivor, Rowan Lexa Doig. Along the way, he is enhanced by a regenerative nanotechnology process, which gives him an impenetrable metal body. Finally, he is ejected into space and falls to the planet Earth Two, incinerated in the atmosphere. Krueger has grown weak, as people in his home town of Springwood have suppressed their fear of him. Jason accomplishes this, but refuses to stop killing. A battle ensues in both the dream world and Crystal Lake. The adult Jason Derek Mears kidnaps Whitney Miller Amanda Righetti , a girl who looks like his mother, and holds her prisoner in his underground tunnels. When his body is dumped into the lake, Jason emerges out of the water to grab Whitney and their fates are left unknown. When she opens the door, Jason is standing there with a machete, and he decapitates her. In the novel, instead of being cremated, Elias has Jason buried after his death. The three-issue series was a condensed version of the film, with a few added scenes that were never shot. Collins wrote a three-issue, non-canonical miniseries involving a crossover between Jason and Leatherface. The story involves Jason stowing away aboard a train, after being released from Crystal Lake when the area is drained due to heavy toxic waste dumping. Jason meets Leatherface, who adopts him into his family after the two become friends. Eventually they turn on each other. They did not feature Jason explicitly, but revolve around people becoming possessed by Jason when they put on his mask. Jason and Jason X respectively. The Jason X series consisted of four sequels to the novelization of the film. The Experiment was the first published. In this novel, Jason is being used by the government, who are trying to use his indestructibility to create their own army of "super soldiers". Bardox and his crew as they try to clone the body of a comatose Jason, and shows their efforts to stay alive when Jason wakes from his coma. Jason has a son in this book, conceived through a form of artificial insemination. The story takes place after the events of Freddy vs. Knowing that Jason caused the recent destruction, Laura, unknown to her brother, sets out to kill Jason using a paramilitary group, so that she and her brother can sell the property. Bloodbath was released in September. Written by Brian Pulido and illustrated by Mike Wolfer and Andrew Dalhouse, the story involves a group of teenagers who come from Camp Tomorrow, a camp that sits on Crystal Lake, for work and a "party-filled weekend". The teenagers discover they share common family backgrounds, and soon awaken Jason, who hunts them. Written and illustrated by Mike Wolfer, the story takes place after the events of the film Jason X. A salvage team discovers the spaceship Grendel and awakens a regenerated Jason Voorhees. Fearbook was released, written by Mike Wolfer with art by Sebastian Fiumara. The comic has Jason being captured and experimented upon by the Trent Organization; Jason escapes and seeks out Violet, the survivor of Friday the 13th: Bloodbath, who is being contained by the Trent Organization in their Crystal Lake headquarters. Church of the Divine Psychopath has Jason resurrected by a religious cult. Pamela is in search of Jason, who is now part of a traveling sideshow and about to be auctioned off to the highest bidder. The series depicts various paranormal phenomena occurring at Crystal Lake. The comic book provides new insight into the psychology of Jason Voorhees as he befriends a boy born with a skull deformity. Ash, starring the two killers and Ash from the Evil Dead series. Freddy attempts to use Jason to retrieve the book, stating it will make him a real boy. The miniseries features Jason stalking a trio of teenaged hikers taking shelter from a blizzard in Camp Crystal Lake. Ash, subtitled The Nightmare Warriors, was released by Wildstorm in Jason escapes from the bottom of Crystal Lake to resume his hunt for Ash, but is captured by the U. Freddy helps him escape and appoints him the general of his Deadite army, using the Necronomicon to heal his accumulated injuries and decomposition; it removes his natural deformities in the process. At the climax of the story, Jason battles his nemesis Tommy Jarvis and his great-niece Stephanie Kimble; Stephanie impales him before Tommy decapitates him with a shard of glass. Miller felt it was a "creepy-sounding name", which was perfect for his character. Victor Miller explained Jason was not meant to be a creature from the "Black Lagoon" in his script, and scripted Jason as a mentally disabled young boy; it was Savini who made Jason deformed. Before he could get started, Cunningham walked in and offered him a different part: The adult role of Jason Voorhees has been played by various actors, some not credited, others taking great pride in their parts. Due to the physical demands the adult character requires, and the lack of emotional depth depicted, many of the actors since have been stuntmen. The most well-known among them is Kane Hodder, who is cited as the best to play the role. The director Steve Miner felt it was the obvious direction to take the series, as he felt the audience wanted to know more about the child who attacked Alice in the lake. Miner decided to pretend as if Alice did not see the "real Jason" in her dream, and Jason had survived his drowning as a boy and had grown up. Executive producer Frank Mancuso Jr. Miller, who has not seen any of the sequels, took issue with all of them because they made Jason the villain. Miller believes the best part of his screenplay was that it was about a mother avenging the senseless death of her son. Miller stated, "Jason was dead from the very beginning; he was a victim, not a villain. So I go from lead role to no role. Needless to say, I was disappointed. Gillette auditioned for the role of Paul; that role eventually went to John Furey. Gillette received credit for playing Jason, while Daskawisz was given credit as the stunt double. When Part 3 was released the following year, Daskawisz was credited as Jason for the reused footage from the climax of the film. Having secured a part on Guiding Light, Daskawisz declined. After a simple conversation, Miner decided he was the right person for the job. Being new to the country, Brooker believed that "playing a psychopathic killer" was the best way into the movie business. According to Brooker, "It felt great with the mask on. White went so far as to not speak to any of the other actors for long stretches. Displeased with his experience from filming, White had his name removed from the credits. When Ted White turned down the opportunity to return, Dick Wieand was cast. Feeling alienated during the shoot, Wieand spent most of his time in his trailer.
