Chapter 2 : Snow Skiing / Snowboarding Information for Wasatch Mountains, Utah

As someone who has lived in Utah for a season, I was really interested to see what this book had to say. The author, Michael R. Fine, is a Utah local and visited every resort in Utah in order to write this book.

A post shared by Dillon Green dillongreen on Jan 14, at 7: That means looking for ways to protect them, including riding the Ski Bus. Riding the bus also means we can kick back and get our heads in powder space - by listening to kicking tunes or chilling with a good read. No stress, just a ride to front door of the lodge! I usually take a book but always end up talking to the person next to me. And did you know these buses can put on their chains with the press of a button? You just hop on and leave the driving to the pros! Sit closest to the door. Last one on, but first to the powder! Taking the bus sounded difficult and boring. After actually giving the bus a chance, I found it to be less stressful and more enjoyable than driving. Find a new playlist or genre and listen to it on your way up. Talk to someone on the bus! Play Tic-Tac-Toe with the condensation on the windows. Ask fellow Ski Bus goers what their favorite song is. Put your phone away. Look out the window, talk to someone, or learn something new about your shredding partner. Play the alphabet game with friends. Try to find every letter of the alphabet using only text you see inside or outside the bus. You must find them in alphabetical order. First to Z wins! Compile a get-stoked shredding playlist. Play the license plate game. Whoever finds the most license plates from out of state, wins! Find words on the bus and combine them to make the name of your band, first album, or a hit song. Here are some basic tips: Ski buses run from the canyon bases, so you will ride either FrontRunner, TRAX, or another bus to that stop then transfer for the ride up canyon. Look at the overview map to get a general idea of the routes, and then visit the UTA website for the most up to date information. If you have a season pass, ask your resort about getting a free Ski Bus Pass. The canyon resorts have signed on to support the service by offering Ski Bus passes. The drivers do not provide change, which means your ride could be more expensive if you only have bills. Arrive at the bus stop at least five minutes early. All bus stops are marked by a sign that lists all routes that stop at that location, plus a Stop ID number. The Stop ID number can be used for the Ride Time system , which can help you find out when the next bus is coming. Ride Time will reply with the next three bus stop departure times from that location. If you need to transfer to another bus or TRAX, get a transfer slip from the driver. This is your only proof of fare when you make your transfer. Transfer slips are only good for two hours after your initial ride. This means you tap the same spot on the card reader you used when you boarded. This automatically gives you the transfer credit and a few other things. More details can be found HERE. The Ski Utah app is fully loaded with every ski bus route in the state! The service runs all day, with minute frequency during peak hours. Other downtown hotels require a connection. Please confirm with your hotel where the nearest stop is located. We do our best to create a comprehensive and accurate list.
