

Chapter 1 : Vocabulary Lessons for Grade 5

Grade 5 Level Blue. Vocabulary Is the Foundation for Reading. Put elementary students on track to meet the Common Core State Standards. Introduce high-utility and academic vocabulary in context and promote students' understanding of these words with multiple exposures.

I see measurable progress with both my grade-level and intervention students. I love the scripted lessons! Program Description Language Conventions: Standards review, definitions and examples, practice and error analysis, simple sentence diagrams, mentor texts with writing applications, and formative assessments are woven into every minute lesson. Students annotate the full text of the lesson on their language convention worksheets as you teach the lesson. Next, students complete a practice section, a simple sentence diagram, a mentor text which applies the grammatical lesson focus, and a brief writing application. Lastly, students complete two sentence dictation formative assessments and then self-correct from the projected display. The instructional sequence is designed to review previously introduced spelling patterns and add new grade level spelling patterns. Students create personal spelling lists to supplement these spelling patterns from spelling errors in their own writing and spelling resources found in the appendices. Students complete spelling pattern sorts for each weekly lesson and self-correct from the projected display. Teachers test weekly or biweekly. Students take margin notes on the lesson text and practice grammatical constructions, vary sentence patterns, and maintain a consistent voice and tone with precise and concise word choices. Students share their answers in class discussion and self-correct from the projected display. Vocabulary study cards are provided for each lesson. Word lists have been developed from the research-based Academic Word List. Unit Tests Biweekly grammar, usage, mechanics, and vocabulary unit tests require students to define, identify, and apply their knowledge of these Language Standards in the writing context. Perfect for English-language learners, special education, and remedial students! The assessments are administered whole-class and mastery recording matrices allow the teacher to organize instructional materials and to monitor the progress of individual students at a glance. Teachers individualize instruction according to the results of each diagnostic assessment with corresponding grammar, usage, and mechanics worksheets, spelling pattern worksheets, and language worksheets. Each targeted worksheet includes definitions, examples, writing hints, a practice section and a short formative assessment. Students progress at their own rates to master previous grade level Standards. Language convention appendices include grammar, usage, and mechanics resources, proofreading strategies and practice, supplemental spelling word lists, and spelling review games. The vocabulary appendix provides review games, context clues practice, vocabulary teaching resources, and a complete syllabication program with syllable worksheets. The program has been designed to require absolutely no prep and minimal teacher correction. Students self-correct with each lesson component to learn from their own mistakes. Seven short training videos assist teachers to make full implementation of the program simple and successful. Rather than printing off multiple worksheets for each lesson, teachers print the entire workbook only once. The student workbook includes the full instructional text of each language conventions, spelling, language application, and vocabulary lesson with interactive practice and formative assessments.
