Our Voice lessons are offered to students above age 8 and are the most comprehensive voice lessons in Houston. Learn to sing the music you love! About Vocal Music The earliest form of music known to man is vocal music. It was sung from person to person, often transmitting vital information about history and culture. In the Middle Ages, vocal music started its evolution into modern form. With the European Renaissance beginning in the 14th Century, Western vocal music expanded from monotonal chant to increasingly complex song structures and harmonies. Singing with instrumental accompaniment rose to prominence. As harmonies and musical structures evolved in European-influenced countries, so did songs. Vocal music expanded into the theater in the form of the opera, a musical play. Composers also wrote songs to be performed in the concert hall. Contemporary vocal music in European-influenced countries such as the United States has its roots in the Western tradition, which includes concepts such as musical notation on a five-line staff, an eight-note musical octave and harmonies based on major and minor scales. You need to constantly improve your skills and talent. Not many people know that even the greatest singers in the music industry work with professional vocal coaches. They constantly strive to put their skills to the test, it not only improves their skills, but it also opens them up to newer experiences. However! A voice coach is not for everyone. To rise above other singers in the field who are amazingly talented, I knew I had to improve my voice. How can I achieve this? Just like everyone else, I started searching online for techniques on exercising my voice without having to pay anything. The web is full of information. All the answers to my questions are there, right? These are some of the things I came out with instead: Articles that were not helpful. Most are just senseless and go nowhere. Downloading free online vocal course copies got me burned! Really hard Daily Practice? Practicing how to sing daily is just logical, right? Practice going higher and try out new songs. It is not that simple, honey I felt like there was no improvement at all, and I was just so lost. I had no idea what I was doing. I was totally clueless about the needed practices. I had no idea that vocal exercises should do to help me improve my singing. Private vocal coaching was not the road I wanted to go. I needed someone who can help me become a professional singer. The local vocal coaches could not help me become a real singer. I needed someone from the big leagues. I opted for the less expensive lessons instead. Surprisingly, a few options turned up very adequate. They were well-suited for my situation. But if you want to learn how to sing better fast and affordably, online singing lessons are your best bet. Those mentioned above are some of my absolute favorite online singing lessons. They have something to offer both for novice and experienced singers alike. Check out all the options first, and then make your choice. All of the options are very good, all you have to choose is the program with the learning method that works for you. These courses are great and will take you to new levels you never thought you could reach. I highly recommend that you try out at least one course. If you are just like me, get all the three online singing lessons recommended here and soak up every singing lesson you can solely for the passion of singing. Have you had any experiences with online singing lessons? Which of them helped you improve your singing voice? Share your thoughts, I am open for discussions and comments. I would love to hear about them!

Because we must coordinate with the Boston campus for Commencement, it is essential that students planning to walk in the ceremony submit their graduation application by If you submit your application late, you will need to wait until the following year to walk. We ask all students planning to graduate within the current academic year to apply for graduation by December 1, regardless of their plans to participate in Commencement. Late application for students who do not wish to walk will result in processing delays for your academic record and diploma, and your name may not be listed in the ceremony program. Walking in Commencement and graduating are two separate things. You can walk in Commencement when you are nine 9 credits or less away from completing your degree requirements by the end of the spring term. Berklee Online degree students are not required to walk in Commencement in Boston. You graduate when you have met all of the following criteria: Attained at least a 2. You will not officially graduate and receive your diploma until you meet all of the eligibility requirements. I just finished my last term at Berklee Online! Is there anything I need to do? If you have already filled out a graduation application, you will want to double-check the " Graduation Checklist " to ensure you have taken care of all of the various items associated with graduating. If you have not filled out a graduation application, you will need to do that as soon as possible. You will not be able to graduate until we have received and processed your graduation application. When will I get my diploma? You will receive your diploma within weeks of completing your degree requirements. Please keep in mind that instructors have up to two 2 weeks to submit final grades after the term concludes. Diplomas are mailed to the address you include on your graduation application. If your mailing address changes after you have submitted your graduation application, be sure to update us at graduation online. Keep in mind that if you are walking in Commencement, you will not receive your official diploma at the ceremony. Transfer Credits Can I find out how many transfer credits I am eligible for before I apply to the degree program? If you are interested in applying to the Bachelor of Professional Studies degree program and would like an estimate of the amount of transfer credit you would receive, you can request an unofficial transfer evaluation by emailing a copy of your transcripts to the Berklee Online Transfer Team at transfer@berklee.edu. Be sure to include your name, major of interest, and any additional questions you may have. You can expect to receive your assessment within business days. What should I do? The earlier you contact us with questions or concerns regarding your evaluation, the easier it will be for us to address any issues. Therefore, it is very important when you first receive your official transfer evaluation that you review the information carefully. If none of those exclusions apply, please fill out a Transfer Credit Equivalency Re-evaluation form for the courses you wish to have reconsidered. Sometimes, we are not able to locate specific information for a course online and we are not able to determine an equivalency, but we are always happy to review additional material which will help us make that determination. No, credits completed at Berklee or through the prior learning process do not count towards the 60 transfer credit limit. This maximum is for credit-bearing exams and undergraduate-level coursework completed externally. What is a credit deficiency and why do I need to make up credit? Credit deficiencies are caused by transferring a course that is less than three (3) credits to fulfill a three (3) credit Berklee Online requirement. Students with a credit deficiency will be short of the minimum number of credits required to graduate once they have completed their program requirements. In order to be eligible to graduate, you will need to make up the credits you are deficient in. While the Transfer Team does their best to avoid giving students credit deficiencies, it is not always possible. You can make up the credits you are deficient in by completing additional Berklee Online coursework, by applying for prior learning credit, or by completing additional external coursework in the area in which you are deficient. Note all external courses will first need to be approved by the Transfer Team. Can transfer credit fulfill prerequisites? Generally, transfer credit cannot be used to fulfill prerequisites unless we determine that the course you completed is a direct equivalent to one of the courses we offer at Berklee Online. Keep in mind that there are some courses which require you to pass a placement exam. For these you will need to achieve a passing grade on the test to fulfill the prerequisite, otherwise you will need to complete the appropriate Berklee Online course. Can I transfer credits to Berklee Online after I have started the degree program? To determine if the coursework you already completed or are considering taking is eligible to fulfill your remaining degree requirements, contact the Transfer Team at transfer@berklee.edu. I am a Berklee campus student. Can I transfer courses from Berklee Online to my campus-based program? Are Berklee Online courses transferable to other institutions? Berklee Online is regionally accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, the same association that accredits our main campus and other leading academic institutions such as Harvard University and MIT. We recommend getting a course pre-approved by an institution before enrolling. Moreover, a recent study revealed that the average annual tuition at for-profit colleges is more than twice as expensive as Berklee Online. How much does a certificate program cost? The registration fee and all courses for the term you wish to begin in must be paid in full in order to begin. Tuition and fees are subject to change. Both programs are comprised of 12 three-credit courses that can be taken during four week semesters. What is included in the cost of a course? The cost for an individual course includes the tuition fee. The cost of required books, hardware or software must be purchased separately, unless it is stated that these costs are included with your enrollment. Some courses may include additional fees for files or content.

Voice Training Video Lessons Selection of links to free online video lessons, techniques, tips, advice, exercises plus hilarious spoofs and links to audio/visual tracks of some of the great singers past and present.

Warm-Ups User controlled vocal warm-ups; choose from scale pattern, range, speed, and vowel sound warm-ups. Pitch Training Learn to identify pitches and also to hear and sing intervals and harmonies through strengthening your voice. Dave came out and joined me on tour. It has every kind of scale a singer would need for any situation and can be tailored to suit each individual voice. Many of the singers who came out with music at the same time as me have lost their voices and range from the pressure of singing every night and also the travel and lifestyle. It is a muscle that needs to be stretched and worked out just like any other muscle in the body for it to stay healthy. My range has increased and I can honestly say I am a better singer today than I ever was and its because i never have stopped learning and growing. I think it is good for all kids and people to learn to sing because it releases a lot of tension and is a great vehicle to channel your emotions and pain. The amount of vocal warmups and workouts included in SINGPRO along with its diagnostic abilities make it specific and useful for any type of singer. I was blown away that the Ear Training section utilized the same methodology that I studied when coming up and allowed me to test out of Ear Training when I enrolled at Berklee. I recommend this useful tool to every singer I work with as it ensures a healthy warm up and a great conditioning tool between gigs. I have been a piano player - mostly classical - but wanted to pursue pop music and had no experience with singing. So, I tracked down the best coach I could find, and found out he also had some software for vocal development. SINGPRO became my go to tool and with it, I was able to not only get more range and ease in my voice, but I have been able to stylize so much better because of my use of the program. Even as a vocal performance coach, I use it to help my clients understand how to bridge the gap between the exercises and lyrical application when performing on stage. Not only is it very easy to navigate, but the various tools, resources, and exercises allow me to constantly expand and hone my singing skills. This is truly an amazing tool that every singer needs in their belt. It allows my clients to keep pace with their development in between our sessions. It also makes working with artists on-line easy. They can sing to the scales wherever they are; all I have to do is personalize the exercises based on their responses.

His lessons are really easy to follow, even when teaching tricks that I thought only professionals could pull off. Roger is better than any other voice teacher I've had because his teaching style is funny and engaging, and I could take each lesson as many times as I wanted.

Does your voice convey confidence and conviction every time you speak? Or does your voice need strength training? A Six Minutes reader whose career depends on a strong, confident voice sent in this question: For some reason my voice quivers. Is there some kind of exercise that may strengthen my vocal cords? Any ideas what may contribute to that? It can produce at least different pitches. There are more nerves in the muscles of the larynx than any other muscles in your body, with the exception of your eyes. In addition, you use three quarters of your body when you speak a word, and even a stubbed toe can affect the sound of your voice. Just as with the rest of your body, some people naturally have more vocal strength, while others need to pump up theirs just to keep up with their daily vocal requirements. Regardless of the case, voice training using proper vocal exercises can make a world of difference in both control and endurance in the voice. Unless you are a voice practitioner, or have studied with a voice professional which I highly recommend! So here is a mini-workout that you can use every day to get your voice in shape and get control of those tremors, quivers, and flips when you speak. Proper breathing is the foundation for a healthy voice AND control over nervous energy that can make the voice quiver. This develops mask resonance, which creates a clean and vibrant sound by creating a clean approximation of the cords and a resonance that will sound great and project easily. This enhances vocal flexibility and coordination. This is more mask resonance training. Starting at mid range, make a siren sound with Oooo and Eeeee by sliding down your vocal range several times, starting higher each time. Again, the focus here is on more flexibility and coordination. Now, for isolation of muscles for articulation, try some tongue twisters like those below. To get the full workout, say them each several times but only as fast as you can go and keep them clear. You can increase your speed over time: The blue bluebird blinks. What time does the wristwatch strap shop shut? Freshly fried flying fish, freshly fried flesh. To bring it all together, speak a few sentences out loud. Use an opening or closing of a talk, a favorite poem or long quote, or song lyrics. Every good work out needs a cool down. End with 5 more big, deep breaths. Vocal Delivery Article Series.
