

Chapter 1 : 14 Things to Do in Phuket When it RAINS! (Updated) - Phuket

You can curl up with a great book or binge-watch an entire season of something, but, let's face it, sometimes you want different, fun things to do at home. And if you have kids, you're going to need a loooong menu of options.

You put all that time and energy into planning your Smoky Mountains vacation and then it rains. There are endless things to do in Pigeon Forge when it rains. In fact, during my last trip to the Smokies, it rained on and off every day of the week. Did we let that stand in our way of having a fantastic vacation? Instead of packing up and heading home or sulking in your cabin, check out these nine Pigeon Forge activities to do when it rains. These outdoor activities in Pigeon Forge are sure to entertain, rain or shine. Dollywood When you think about theme parks, what comes to mind? Rollercoasters, park food, kiddie rides, and the dreaded lines. When I went to Dollywood with my family, it poured for the first minutes of our day and we watched the crowds clear out. After that, it was a few light showers on and off, but we never waited more than 10 minutes for a roller coaster. We walked right onto Tennessee Tornado and Wild Eagle! To be safe, pack a rain jacket or a poncho and put your electronic items in a Ziploc bag throughout the day. Why skip a day on the water slides and lazy river because more water is falling from the sky? Plus, depending on your idea of fun, the extra water could make the slides more thrilling! Go Hiking I must be insane, right? Who goes hiking in the rain? I hiked up to Laurel Falls in the rain on July 4th. This normally jam-packed trail had maybe 20 people including my group on it the entire time I was there. We packed rain jackets, put on our hiking boots, and headed out on the 2. If you do decide to go hiking in the rain, I recommend checking the forecast. If you see a large storm cell heading your direction, reconsider the timing of your hike. Also, think about the length of the trail. Choose a short trail to be safe and enjoy the Smokies. If the storms have been strong, call your rafting company ahead of time. Strong storms can raise the Pigeon River rapid levels to unsafe conditions. Or, if severe storms are in the future forecast, the rafting guides may cancel for your safety. Family-Friendly Activities In addition to the ample outdoor things to do in Pigeon Forge when it rains, the area boasts multiple indoor attractions. For unlimited fun, check out these indoor attractions when the rain clouds roll in. Hollywood Wax Museum Who knew you could sort of meet your favorite celebrities in the Smoky Mountains? The Hollywood Wax Museum is a great rainy day activity for families with children of all ages. Take your picture next to wax figures of music stars, film icons, politicians, and athletes. WonderWorks Geared towards curious children, WonderWorks offers more than engaging, hands-on exhibits and activities such as an indoor ropes course, laser tag, and more. Do note that this attraction can become packed on especially rainy days, so be sure to arrive as early as possible. Titanic Museum Attraction Families interested in educational things to do in Pigeon Forge when it rains will love the immersive Titanic Museum Attraction. This interactive museum provides guests with an inside look at the magnificent vessel, the events that took place that fateful night, and the individual stories of passengers. Kids will love feeling an iceberg and following along with the stories, while parents will appreciate the historical significance of the attraction. Pigeon Forge dinner and theater shows are known for their world-class entertainment, Broadway-level talent, and delectable meals. After the shows, stick around and meet the cast! At most Pigeon Forge dinner shows, the cast provides a meet and greet opportunity once the performance has ended. To beat the lines and save in the long run, purchase your tickets for top rainy day Pigeon Forge attractions from Reserve Pigeon Forge today.

Chapter 2 : What to do in Bermuda when it rains?

50 Things To Do When Nothing can be more of a bummer when you have your day planned for going outside and the rain pours. While it is true that nothing beats the feeling of warmth brought about by sunshine, it does not mean that you can't have fun being indoors.

Many houses have basement water problems. The first step to solving your basement water problems for good is to understand why water leaks into the basement. Causes of basement leaks Water stains on walls and pooling water on the floor are common signs of basement water leaks. The most common causes of basement leaks is pressure created by water in the soil surrounding the foundation. There are two different forms of pressure that can cause issues: During periods of heavy or persistent rain, the soil can become saturated, creating hydrostatic pressure or water pressure that can push moisture and water through your basement walls and floor. The looser soil around your foundation tends to absorb more water. The area around the home is often flooded with rain water from clogged gutters or downspouts that are discharging water right next to the foundation. When the soil expands, it creates lateral or sideways pressure against the foundation. Window wells can be another cause of water leaks in the basement. If a window well is not properly installed or if the drain becomes clogged, the window well can fill with water. During a heavy rain, the water can seep into your basement. Water stains on the walls are a sure sign of leaky basement windows. How water gets into the basement Water can find its way into your basement a number of ways, such as: Through cracks in the walls or floor At the joint where the poured concrete floor meets the wall Through cracks in mortar joints of block or masonry foundation walls

Fixing basement leaks When it comes to fixing your leaky basement, there are a few steps to take to prevent leaks and keep your basement dry: When it rains, clogged gutters can overflow and rainwater can pool around your foundation. Removing leaves and debris and installing leaf guards and downspout extenders to direct water away from the house can all help prevent the soil around your house from becoming saturated. Installing a fitted window well cover is a simple solution for keeping your window wells free of leaves and other debris that can cause the drain to clog and allow water to seep into your basement.

Install an interior waterproofing system: An interior drain tile connected to a sump pump is a proven solution for keeping the basement dry. The most effective way to keep water out of your basement is to install an interior drainage system that minimizes hydrostatic pressure. By installing drain tile along the joint where the floor meets the wall, where most water leakage occurs, you can capture water before it makes its way onto the basement floor. Water coming through the foundation walls will also be collected by the drain tile. The drainage system then carries the water to a sump pump that automatically pumps the water out of your home.

Basement Systems has helped fix thousands of leaky basements throughout the United States and Canada. If your basement leaks when it rains, we have a basement waterproofing contractor in your area who can help solve your basement water problems. Contact us today for a free estimate with your in-home consultation.

Chapter 3 : 9 Things to Do in Pigeon Forge When it Rains

While rainy season may prevent visitors from doing some activities - especially outdoor activities - there are activities still that you can do despite the weather, fun guaranteed! Video Source Top 3 activities to book in Cancun.

People always associate rainy days with depression. This should not be the case if you can find something fun or productive to do. There are 50 things in this list, and some of these do not really apply to everyone or to all genders and ages. If you learn to like whatever it is that you have just discovered doing, you might be able to make it your own hobby. Clean up your closet. This might be the best opportunity for you to give out your used clothes to charity and maybe shop for new ones. Gather the family and play board games. It will be a good way of spending quality family time. Call up some friends and have a simple house party. You can come up with a themed cooking and eating activity. Some people prefer to watch their favorite movies over and over to make them feel better, while others would like to watch random movies on cable. This will definitely make the rainy days more fun, especially when you spend it with the people you love. Learn to cook your favorite meal. Bake cookies and other goodies. Doing this with loved ones is always better. Go out in the rain and play like a kid. Play the hippest dance music and dance the rainy day away. It takes the stress away. You can do cross-stitch or simple scrapbooking. Enjoy a good cup of coffee, either at home or a nearby cafe. Drive to the mall and do some window shopping. There are many things you can buy online. Plan your next vacation by visiting travel websites. Visit the nearest museum. Visit the nearest library. Organize your photos and photo albums. Make captions for each picture. Plan a special dinner for the whole family to partake in. Recycle something and make it beautiful. Make paper boats and look for puddles outside where you can let them float. Learn how to make paper airplanes and let them fly across the house. This is great to do with kids. Plan an indoor date with your special someone. Write in your journal what your plans are for the next few months. Play a sport in the rain with your friends. There should be a guitar, a piano or any instruments inside your house. Play them or learn them. Form a big puzzle. Update your social media sites and blog if you have any. Read helpful blogs about families, parenting and personal development. Set up important appointments with doctors, dentists, tutors and the like, that you might need for your kids and for yourself. If you have a treadmill at home, or other equipment that will help you get fit, do so. Watch old video tapes of family events and other special occasions with the whole family and reminisce good old times. Spend time and play with your pets. Think of an exciting theme. Learn the art of folding paper, or origami. Eat cookies with milk. It will make any rainy day feel so much better. Research about an influential person that you like and follow one trait or practice that he or she does for the next 21 days. Have 30 minutes of silent meditation. Do your nails and put colors on them that you never dared to use before. Ride the bicycle around a few blocks under the rain. Have a nice little chat with the family while eating ice cream. Make popcorn and add in some powdered flavors. Search for colored beads and make your own set of accessories. Make a donation online for homeless or starving kids. You just need to know that there are many productive and fun things that you can do even without sunshine. Any of these things will make you feel better about yourself and will make others feel better too. Interestingly, both the advices are in the form of a saying that you will

4 Simple Tips to Eat Healthy on a Budget Given the condition of the economy, there is nothing wrong with being on a tight budget. The time you are wasting complaining, which you justify as venting is not benefiting you. You need to

3 Easy Ways to Alleviate Night-time Fear and Anxiety A lot of us are under the impression that children are the only ones who are afraid of the dark and nightfall. Did you know that there are plenty of

12 Reasons Why Crossfit Kicks Ass

What are you

Many times, you might have heard that CrossFit is not helpful in keeping you in shape; however, that is not the case. His classes primarily helped people become comfortable with public speaking. Part of 5 Things You Should Know About Guilt If there was ever a thing that was worthy of being labelled as a psychological cancer, it would be guilt. Guilt is experienced universally, yet so poorly understood. As I learn it helps me understand more to write about my experiences and life lessons. I love to teach and bring happiness to others by opening their eyes to great possibilities.

Chapter 4 : What can I do in Ledro in the rain? - Alpine Garda Holiday

(1) things to do in Maui when it rains, and (2) how to decrease your chances of having a rainy day on Maui. In the left column below, is a list of activities and sights and things to do in Maui when it rains.

Spread the love When it rains or is cloudy in Rio it seems like everything stops. The people here are like sun flowers that open up with good weather. There is even a saying that the Carioca is made of sugar, she melts in rain. I have put together some options here that will help you on the way. There are many interesting in Rio de Janeiro, this mainly because it used to be the capital of Brazil. Is there a better pastime when it rains than to go to the cinema? Click here and you will get all the info you need. The place listed is in Barra de Tijuca and accessible by bus from Zona Sul. Open from latest 12h until midnight. Boliche SocialClub Go Kart Like bowling it is only available in a few shopping malls; here is the most accessible. Top Kart Indoor, Av. Indoor track, fairly cheap. Santa Teresa, the bohemian neighbourhood on the hill is for sure one of the highlights in Rio. Getting there these days is slightly tricky since the bondinho little train stopped running, some options: Here you also have a tourist information where you can get good information about galleries, museums, sights and restaurants. You also have many small shops with arts and handicraft around here. The address is R. You can get there either by bus that passes through all of Zona Sul including Copacabana, Ipanema and Leblon or bus that passes Botafogo but then cuts across straight to the lake. Well worth a visit, not only when it rains. Feb 19, Hakan Almerfors.

If you're looking for a place to take refuge from the rain where you can be ensured a great experience, try visiting one of the 14 best craft beer bars in L.A. or maybe check out one of the spots where we think you can get the best cocktails in the city.

Ryan Vaarsi via flickr 1. Have the children expand their knowledge on the environment, all while being able to have bonding moments. The museum is free, unless you want to go into some of the exhibits. To check out what exhibits they do have: Need some ideas on where to go? Check out this article: A little rain could never turn any woman or man away from shopping. On a rainy day in LA, however, it would be difficult to enjoy places like The Grove, the Glendale Galleria, because many of their stores are located outdoors and are really meant for customers to enjoy the weather. Give Indoor Roller-Skating a Try This vintage vibe rink is one of the last few existing roller rinks in Los Angeles, so plan a trip while you still can! If you want to try something different or feel like your part of the 70s groove, check it out with some friends! Advertisements More information 5. Believe it or not, they have come to life. Meditate to Some Find Inner Peace Want to stop worrying about the future days and focus on the present? Consider doing meditation inspired by ancient Tibetan culture. The center even offers free public meditation sitting hours in two Los Angeles locations: West LA and Eagle Rock! How cool would it be have a ceramic in your home and say you handmade it? Take a Cooking Class Yes, I said it. Foodstory even offers a cooking party, inspired by a Japanese menu, but it is possible to choose which dishes you would like to make. Located in downtown Los Angeles, this place offers a variety of workshops such as classes on Japanese table manner and etiquette, how to make Japanese curry and one of L. Watch a Movie! With a Menu If you would rather relax on a rainy day and watch a movie on the big screen all while having a full course meal, well you can! There are AMC dine in theatres for a full family, and there are private ones with a full sized bar. And if Marina Del Rey is a little far for you, then try hitting up one of the 10 best theaters in Los Angeles for a vintage movie experience. It is available for people of all ages, in a safe environment with coaches practicing safe and healthy training methods. There are two locations "Chatsworth and Hawthorne. Spend a romantic evening in a lovely environment socializing with your friends and family. Get resourceful at the Los Angeles Public Library Rainy days and a good book is an exquisite combination to enlighten the mind. You will be surprised when you walk inside this building near the heart of downtown LA. The amount of collections will astound your sight. Be careful though, you might spend more hours in here than you plan! Might I recommend visiting one of We Like L. Seriously, how could you go wrong? Marco Antonio Torres via flickr Climb a Rock Indoors! Join the Los Angeles fitness hype and test your upper body strength to indoor rock climbing. Rockreation gym has 10, sq. Whether you are new to rock climbing or have been doing it for years "this exercise is surely an efficient use of a rainy day in L. Voda spa in West Hollywood offers spas, facials, scrubs, salons, and other services. It is possible to choose what kind of massage you want to "whether it be a hot stone massage or a Russian bear. Spas are an excellent way of feeling refreshed, rejuvenated, and reinvigorated. Get inspired at the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising Museum This museum provides the public to learn more about historic fashion and its relationship to society. Throughout the year, they host different exhibitions for people to try out so that every time a person walks in "a new experience is also made. What are your favorite thing to do in L. Let us know in the comments below!

Chapter 6 : How to Have Fun on a Rainy Day (with Pictures) - wikiHow

It can be great to escape from the rain, but it can be even more fun to go outside and revel in it. Pull on your boots and raincoat, grab an umbrella and take a walk with friends or just by yourself. Savor the sound of rain in the streets and the fresh, clean smell.

Thunderstorm Phobias Dogs with storm phobias can often sense when bad weather is approaching hours before you even hear the patter of rain on the roof. They may pant or pace around the house, hide or cling to their owners. As the storm progresses, the signs can worsen: It may be changes in barometric pressure, static electricity, the crack of lightning bolts or just the sound of wind and rain. Although any dog can be affected, it occurs more often in herding breeds, such as German Shepherds and Collies. Previous bad experiences with storms or loud noises may also contribute to the behavior. Forcing fearful dogs to go out in the rain will likely make matters worse. Punishment is never a good idea either, and comforting them during the storm will simply reinforce the behavior. There are even special thunder coats for dogs that can help them feel more secure as storms approach. In severe cases, your veterinarian may recommend medications. However, leaving him outside until he goes is not only cruel, but it will probably backfire on you. Here are a few tips to help him get his paws wet: Go outside with your dog. Don your raincoat and take a short walk with your dog. Reward your dog for doing his business in the rain. A treat or even praise will help reinforce his good behavior. Help your dog stay as dry as possible. Share your umbrella or find spaces between buildings and bushes that are more protected from the wind and rain. Purchase canine rain gear. Many dogs do well with doggie raincoats, and some will even tolerate wearing boots. Think twice about indoor alternatives. While some dogs can be trained to do their business on pee pads, this may confuse your dog. He may then prefer to go indoors and not always in the appropriate places. When in doubt, opt for the great outdoors. Next time, he may not mind a few raindrops.

Chapter 7 : 5 Ways to Find Things to Do When It's Raining - wikiHow

If you're vacationing in Florida's #1 destination city, try one or more of these 25 things to do when it rains in Orlando. Or, scroll through the following pages for suggestions for indoor attractions, adventures, entertainment and more.

What to do in Bermuda when it rains? Well if you like rains, then Bermuda is all yours all the time But I doubt you like rains, particularly during your vacations. A good news for you is, it rarely rains continuously for a long period in Bermuda. But it usually rains in short spurts. Even when it does, it does not usually rain all across the island. So while it rains in one part of the island, the other part might be sunny. And sometimes it rains at night, and not during the day time. Having said that, if you have booked a boat tour and the weather is inclement, there is high possibility that it may get cancelled or rescheduled to another day. While rain all day long is rare, but it can happen if you are too unlucky we experienced that once in the month of February. To get an idea about how much it rains in the island on an average, take a look at this Rainfall Chart. But then what to do if it rains during the day while you are there? Fortunately there can be a good Plan-B. There are actually a plenty of activities and things to do even when it rains in Bermuda. While umbrellas are okay, on a typical rainy day with strong winds, you are better off with a rain coat or a disposable poncho, rather than an umbrella. If there is no winds, umbrella is fine. But note that in Bermuda rain is usually accompanied by winds. Here are some great things that you can do in Bermuda on a rainy day: Enjoy the pub ambience and the rains outside sitting at the roof covered terrace. There are plenty of great Spas in the island. Take a look at Dockyard Attractions. Note that there is a regular guided walking tour that takes place at the Botanical Garden. You will see lots of underwater exhibits there including film footages, collection of rare underwater treasures recovered from shipwrecks, learn about many deep sea creatures and take simulated dive into ocean. If your cruise ship is anchored at Dockyard Kings Wharf , take bus 7. It takes the scenic south shore road by the beautiful beaches. While beach activity on a rainy day may not be ideal, but at least you can see all the great beaches. Or alternatively, take a taxi tour to get around the island and see the places as it rains. As I mentioned earlier, you will likely reach a part of the island which is dry and sunny, and if there is a beach around, start your beach activities if that is what you were missing the most. If you have an umbrella, visit Somers Wharf at St. Georges and enjoy the offerings of quaint shops and restaurants. Choose a Front Street restaurant in Hamilton with a balcony that overlooks the harbor and the street. If you are a coffee drinker, visit a Coffee Shop and savor a cup of coffee made from pure roasted beans and chat with the locals.

Chapter 8 : What You Should Do to Your Pool After it Rains

With any luck, you won't have to use it, but it's best for guests to know ahead of time what to do in the event of rain. A rain date also lets guests know to keep the secondary date free, as well.

However, unlike some of those places, there are tons of things to do in Gatlinburg when it rains. You would be surprised how much fun you can have on vacation when dealing with a rainy day. Find out below what the best things you can do in Gatlinburg are when you face inclement weather. Enjoy Your Cabin Amenities All of our cabins have something for everyone to enjoy from the youngest of visitors to the oldest. We have cabins in Gatlinburg available with swimming pools, theater rooms, hot tubs, game rooms and more. There is definitely plenty to do in your cabin alone to keep you occupied for an entire rainy day of fun. Rainy days are also the best days to curl up with a blanket, popcorn and your favorite movie. Not to mention indoor swimming pools come in handy as well. Get ready to see and learn some great facts about some of the most interesting living things when you visit here. Arcadia If you are into games and electronics, you will definitely love visiting Arcadia. It is the ultimate gaming experience in the Smokies, and it has arcade games for everyone. Visit a Winery or Distillery If you are looking for something a little more laid back, but still very entertaining, you should visit a winery or distillery. It is one of the best things to do in Gatlinburg when it rains because it is just as relaxing as it is fun. Gatlinburg wineries and distilleries like Ole Smoky Moonshine pride themselves by being locally crafted and infusing the history of the area into their work. You will find some of the best wines, moonshines and other beverages this side of the Smokies when you visit any of the ones Gatlinburg has to offer. Guinness World Records Museum One of the best qualities about Guinness World Records Museum as an attraction is not only that it is perfect for a rainy day, but it is also open days a year for unlimited entertainment. At this museum you will experience the most shocking and interesting world records available. It is a wonderful place to take anyone in your group for a great time during your stay. She also completed minors in Marketing and Business Administration. She enjoys writing and conversing over the latest funny commercials, as well as reading books or articles about creativity, business and finances.

Chapter 9 : How to Get Rid of Standing Water in Your Yard

The nation's capital is home to dozens of world-class museums that can easily keep you entertained for hours. On a rainy day, your best bet is to visit one of the larger ones so that you can stay dry for longer, but they are likely to attract a larger crowd than some of the lesser-known attractions.

Just like in any tropical country, you can expect a mix of rainy days and sunny days during rainy season, but better be prepared if it lasts! Here is our list of things you can do if it rains! maybe you should print it and keep it somewhere in your bags! Note that you will need a car to do some of these. Spa is the most obvious activity on a rainy day, for both men and women. We advise our friends not to book this activity in advance: However, if you stay in a spa resort, make a booking as early as possible if you think rain is here to stay. Every single guest of your hotel will have the same idea at the same time! Not really, Jungceylon shopping is fun, but what is more fun are the many activities available. Perfect for a rainy day! Read more 3 Shop at Central Festival Also an obvious choice if you have a car! Central has some good brand shopping and plenty of fun shops to keep you busy for a while. Add to this a 6 rooms movie theater with a fun VIP room. A lot of new activities are now available inside the new wing called Central Floresta. Located not far from the old Phuket Town , it is easy to reach and can be combined with some nearby museums visits. The price is a bit high, but if you have kids you will not regret all the fun poses and hilarious photos you will be taking back home! Read more 5 The Upside Down House The upside down house is exactly and amazingly what the name says. This incredible house stands inverted on the side of the Bypass road outside Phuket Town will challenge your senses and offer plenty of photo opportunities. Each of the three floors of Baan Teelanka meaning upside down house in Thai is the exact replica of an real house but inverted. Living room, kitchen, bed and even a Tuk Tuk appears to be hanging from the ceiling! until your brain realizes that you might be the one at the wrong place! OK, they did the shopping in advance and prepared the ingredient nicely so my only mission was not to mess up too much. I even ate my own cooking and it was good. Some schools take you to the local market , which is a must see if you really want to understand Thai food culture. Temperature is more agreeable than on a sunny day and the historical streets, markets , amazing Sino-Portuguese mansions and temples are close enough to each other to make this a nice stroll. Exploring it in a kayak is the best way to go, silently gliding on the water and through narrow caves and passages to reveal secret places. It looks great with the sun, it looks better in the rain! Read more 9 Get a Tattoo! Tattoos are incredibly popular in Phuket and if you just want a small tattoo you can always walk in any of the studios listed in our page and talk to the artists. Read more 10 Go to Museums Once you exhausted the above list, you still have the museums. Four or five of them are scattered around the island, the best one being the recently renovated Thai Hua Museum then the Tin Mining museum in Kathu, the Thalang Museum near the heroine monument on the way to airport , the Shell Museum in Rawai and inside Jungceylon , the Chinpracha house museum in Phuket Town near the Blue Elephant rest aurant and the quirky Thavorn Museum , also in Phuket town. Just remember to wear something warm as in this tropical weather we tend to forget that Ice Rinks are actually cold! Ice Arena offers a lot of classes and training but you probably will only spend a couple of hours here. Price is baht per hour and per person, including skates. The practice penguin comes with an additional cost of baht per hour, so you better learn fast! Read more 12 Phuket Aquarium Phuket Aquarium is modest but features a short glass tunnel and a good selection of tropical fishes. And Cape P anwa is quite far, so just going there will take you long enough to see a bit of the island. Read more 13 Get Wetter at Splash Jungle You are already wet, so why not add some sensations to it? Fun has no price on those days! Read mo re 14 Try yourself at Thai Boxing Thai Boxing is not for everyone of course, but if you are the physical type and you travelled all the way to Thailand, you could give a shot at Muay Thai. You can try for an hour or two without having to sign up for a full course, but at least you will know what this sport is really about and might even find yourself a new passion.