Sort it out Learn to trace. Select a game which you think is suitable for your kid and let him explore. Reward points are awarded at the end of each completed game. A scoreboard is also maintained to keep track of points earned so far by your child. Points can always be used as a motivating factor to do better. The first game we tried out was Hungry Lizzy. A screenshot of this game is given below. Here you have a hungry lizard named Lizzy. You have to feed Lizzy flies of different colors. The color fly which is displayed in the bottom right corner is the one Lizzy is supposed to eat. Like in the above screenshot the fly displayed at the bottom right corner is of Orange color. So you have to feed Lizzy Orange colored flies which are flying above by clicking on them. This helps kids with color recognition and visual perception. Another game we tried out was match the number. A screenshot of the game can be seen above. This game helps kids learn basic maths and counting. In this game you will have numbers given at the bottom of the window and some shapes given above them. Now you have to match the numbers and the shapes. Like if there are 3 shapes in a box, then you have to drag the number 3 from bottom and match it. The app also offers a quiz option on the home page at the bottom of the screen. The quiz option will make you play random games out of all the available games and the game changes every time you finish one game. The Kids Preschool Learning Games app is pretty good and will definitely help your child in learning in a fun way. The games are simple to understand and play. The reward points can keep your kids motivated to do better each time.
